TeamSTEPPS 2.0 for Long-Term Care is a collaborative effort to update and expand the original TeamSTEPPS in Long-Term Care curriculum to align with similar updates and expansions made in TeamSTEPPS 2.0. The curriculum update was funded by the Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality (AHRQ) under Contract Number HHSA2902012000221, Task Order #2. This effort involved the contributions of many organizations and individuals.

First, we would like to recognize the project sponsors, AHRQ and the Department of Defense (DoD) Patient Safety Program. Specifically, we would like to acknowledge James Battles, Ph.D. (AHRQ-retired) and Heidi King, M.S. (DoD), who have provided ongoing support, ideas, and direction on TeamSTEPPS. In addition, we would like to acknowledge Joanne Robinson and Karen Carp in AHRQ's Office of Communications, who led the development of TeamSTEPPS 2.0 for Long-Term Care.

Second, we would like to acknowledge the many contributors to TeamSTEPPS 2.0 for Long-Term Care. In addition to AHRQ, these include the organizations and individuals who provided input to inform the revised curriculum, including those who participated in focus group testing; executed revisions and updates to the curriculum, supporting materials, and evidence base; and conducted reviews and provided recommendations on all aspects of the effort.

Because TeamSTEPPS 2.0 for Long-Term Care would not be possible without the success of the original TeamSTEPPS and TeamSTEPPS in Long-Term Care curricula, which serve as the foundation for this version, we would like to thank the many organizations and individuals who developed or contributed to the original curricula.

We would also like to acknowledge Dr. John Kotter for his ideas and for sharing the concepts from his book, Our Iceberg Is Melting: Changing and Succeeding Under Any Conditions, within the TeamSTEPPS curriculum.

Finally, we would like to acknowledge Ms. Susan Sheridan, M.B.A., M.I.M., whose story remains a powerful part of the TeamSTEPPS curriculum.
